LIGHTNING HITS POLE; RESIDENTS FEEL SHOCK

Two Persons Dazed by Force of Bolt Monday Afternoon

TELEPHONE TORN OUT

Homes of N. Silbaugh and G. W. Hott Scenes of Electrical Activity

When lightning struck a pole of the West Penn Electric company at the corner of Shady avenue and Ninth street during the electrical storm of Monday afternoon, several people living in the nearby vicinity were greatly shocked. Lightning followed the course of a telephone wire into the home of Noah Silbaugh, tore out the telephone and shocked Mr. Silbaugh who was seated on the porch so seriously that he was unable to move for fully five minutes. Florence Hott, the ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hott, at 839 Oakland avenue, was thrown six feet by the force of the electricity and the two-months old Hott baby was the victim of shock.

Only one bolt of lightning was felt in Charleroi. It came suddenly and unexpectedly and was followed immediately by a loud clap of thunder.

The Hott family lives directly across the street from where the Silbaugh people live. Florence Hott was standing near the door watching the progress of the storm when the lightning struck. She was between the telephone and the sewing machine when the lightning entered. She was propelled through the door to the [illegible]h of the Hott home. Her mother and four others were in the room at the time. They were frightened but did not feel the shock. It is supposed the lightning leaped from the telephone instrument on the wall to the nearest conductor, which happened to be the sewing machine, so that the girl standing there felt the force of the bolt.

Practically no damage was done by the lightning. The pole was somewhat splintered. None of those who experienced the shock were injured [illegible]any extent and feel none the worse for their experience.

SHE TALKS OF FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor of Mt. Braddock, the parents of Jacob Taylor, who is alleged to have confessed to the killing of Florence Dove, visited their son Monday in the county jail at Pittsburg. The mother stated later that her son told her that he was not guilty and that he only said so "because he was afraid they were going to kill him if he didn't." She said that he told her that the third degree method was used on him by the detectives. This is denied by District Attorney Jackson.

Taylors parents arrived in Pittsburg Sunday almost penniless and wandered about the streets until they were taken to a room by Rev. R. E. Schulz, pastor of St. James' Episcopal church. The mother states that her son is weak-minded. She states that he has been in that condition since he was two years of age, when he had the measles. She said that her mother was feeble-minded, that her sister died in an insane asylum, that Mr. Taylor's father died insane and that Jacob's older brother is not strong mentally.

Walter Thomas Strongly Denies Murder of Mrs. Josephine Price

IS SENT TO THE PEN

Convicted of Murder, Young Green Countain Must Serve or Take Further Appeal

Judge James Ingram at Waynesburg, Monday heard the argument of attorneys why Walter Thomas, the youthful farm hand convicted two weeks ago of second degree murder for the killing of Mrs. Josephine Price at Rices Landing in September 1912, should have a new trial. He overruled the motion and sentenced the youth to serve a term of not more than 20 and not less than 10 years in the Western penitentiary.

Thomas' atorneys presented three reasons for a new trial: First, that the verdict was against the weight of the evidence; second, the verdict was against the charge of the court; third, that the court erred in refusing attorneys for the defense to cross-examine the commonwealth's witnesses on points concerning which they had not been interrogated by the commonwealth. They also referred to the fact that public opinion in the county seemed to be with Thomas. They said that the finding of a second degree verdict showed doubt in the minds of the jury. They also referred to Thomas' good character.

Judge Ingram stated that in his opinion Thomas has had a fair trial. In receiving the verdict Thomas was asked to stand and in reply to the court's question whether he had anything to say, he replied: "I have nothing to say only what I have always said, that I am not guilty of this crime."

Mrs. Frances Alrion of Pittsburg, mother of Walter Thomas, was in the court room. She burst into tears when the sentence was pronounced. Thomas did not appear as dignified as he did during the trial, but he did not break down.

The attorneys of the defense may take the case to the supreme court, but this has not been definitely decided.

INTELLIGENT ARBITRATION

Strikes are becoming such familiar and such serious affairs always that thoughtful folk are beginning to wonder just where the end will be. Some of the more recent strikes, attended as they have been by particularly disgraceful scenes, have served to punctuate the need of decided changes in the general plan.

That Ludlow affair in Colorado should not have happened. No one of a serious turn of mind is going to say that it should. It does not matter who was to blame, it was a disgrace to the nation.

There should be some method to prevent such occurrences. If men are not satisfied with conditions of employment or with their wages, of course they should be permitted some redress. But they and everybody else concerned would prefer some other method of getting what they want than by striking and then by fighting to maintain an existance.

A strike is not economical. It is not cheap as an institution to anybody. So why should it be an institution. There is only one way apparent at the present time by which these unpleasant affairs may be prevented to the ultimate satisfaction of employer and employed. That is by intelligent arbitration. Past results have proven arbitration to be an excellent thing if properly carried on. Doubtless both sides in many of the controversies have been unable to secure everything they desired—that would be almost beyond hope. But we are inclined to believe that both sides secured what in the sum total was the best for them.

Some years ago Canada, tiring of long-drawn out, expensive strikes put a plan into effect that has helped considerably in settling matters under dispute. It was simply that when trouble was scented and a strike was under contemplation, an arbitration board would be put on the job. All points of the controversy would be considered and the board, appointed in such way as to make it entirely neutral, would settle the difficulties. No strike could be declared without notice of two or perhaps three months. Strikes have been fewer and less serious since, to the ultimate satisfaction of labor, which desires continued work, and capital, which desires the same thing.

Such a plan might not work badly in the United States.

DEGENERACY AND EUGENICS

The Taylor boy who it is said admitted having committed one of the most brutal murders of a child in the history of western Pennsylvania, is a decidedly peculiar specimen of humanity. If press dispatches are correct, his latest word is that he did not kill eight-year old Florence Dove, but only said he did because supposedly sharp detectives apparently desired him to say that.

Taylor's mother, the story goes, tells that her mother was feebleminded, that her sister died in an insane asylum, and that her husband's father died insane. If all she says is true, it is not to be wondered if the accused young man is a mental degenerate.

Scientists have established largely as fact the belief that inferiors beget inferiors. Perhaps this theory might be applied to the Taylor case. It may be that the lack of observance of the first principal of the eugenistic theory on the part of his parents has made of young Taylor a mental incompetent, and has thrown upon society a vexatious public charge. It would be unsafe to let him go, and to take the life of a feeble-minded person would be considered an outrage to justice.

The only thing left to do if Taylor is proven mentally unfit, is to confine him to an asylum. He will cost the country money, but that cannot be avoided. Perhaps, after all, it might be well to organize generally some of the first principles of eugenics and apply them Degenerates might then not be so numerous.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Canvassing a certain section of the town in an effort to sell tickets to some kind of entertainment, a girl of tender years stopped at a home, and timidly knocked. A young woman came to the door.

"Do you want to buy some tickets?" lisped the little one.

"I don't think so," said the young woman at the door. "But tell me, what are the tickets for?"

The tot stood and studied for a moment, and was forced to give it up. "I don't know," she admitted—"they are 15 cents."

Assured again that no tickets were desired, the girl stood a moment at the doorstep. Feeling it was devolvent upon her to make polite conversation, she said:

"Allright. I'm just as well satisfied."

"I'm not going on my vacation," bitterly spoke a girl as one day last week she entered the office where she is employed.

"Why, what's the matter? I thought you were planning a nice trip," some one said.

"Well, I was, but—" A long drawn sigh was the termination of the sentence.

"Haven't things gone right?"

"No, they haven't and I'm angry, so there. Father came home today and said he had a vacation. It is at the same time as mine. Then he said he was going to visit the same place as I." She interrupted herself with a sigh that was almost tragical.

"I won't go—I won't," she exclaimed. "Do you kniht I want to go where I will see somebody I've been around with the whole year? Indeed, I'll not go."

Recovered from Lung Trouble—Now Insured

Insurance companies will not accept any one affected with Lung Trouble. When you know a man who has been afflicted and who later has been insured, such action means that the policy-holder must be in a very good state of health. Cases have been reported when Lung Sufferers, after taking Eckman's Alterative, a remedy for Throat and Lung Troubles, have successfully passed the medical test of insurance companies. Read this case:—

237 Dean St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Gentlemen: About a year and a half ago I noticed that my health was rapidly failing. I was troubled with night sweats, a severe cough and was very weak; having, in fact, absolutely no ambition whatever. About this time I consulted a physician, who told me my lungs were affected. Not satisfied I went to another doctor, who, after examining me, said that I was in the first stages of Lung Trouble. At this point I started to take Eckman's Alterative. The night sweats stopped almost immediately, my cough became looser and gradually disappeared. My weight is now 142 pounds and my physician has pronounced me perfectly sound—which, together with the fact that I have just been accepted by two different insurance companies for insurance, makes me sure of my entire recovery by Eckman's Alterative."

(Affidavit) W. E. GEE.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

CAPITAL TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Vast Amounts of British Capital Invested in Colonies and in North America.

Take first the capital supplied to new countries for the development of their railways, their oil fields, their rubber plantations, their agriculture. We all remember the political catchword of "capital going abroad," and the campaign against British investments, organized and controlled by the unionist party, remarks the London Chronicle. The unionist leaders and the unionist ex-chancellor of the exchequer solemnly told the country that money was safer abroad than at home, and there is no doubt that the investing classes which are largely unionist took their word for it and did invest abroad. Believing that Diaz, Madero or Huerta was a safer guide than Campbell Bannerman, Asquith or Lloyd-George, they neglected everything English and subscribed for anything foreign—a policy that they may bitterly repent today.

The result of this attitude in England was great activity in the new undeveloped countries. In the capital market, when the tap is working easily, some one is sure to be there with a bucket, and foreign borrowers did like money from London in bucketfuls. Exactly how much has been subscribed in the last few years no one can say, but the Economist figures, which are the most conservative of all the published statistics, place the amount of new capital publicly raised in England during the last five years at £1,044,609,000—one thousand millions in five years in advertised prospectuses alone! Of this sum by far the greater part has gone to British colonies and South America. Canada alone taking nearly £200,000,000 and Argentina nearly £100,000,000.

LONDON TO HONOR FRANKLIN

Movement to Set Up Statue of Philosopher in Chapel Where He Worked as Printer.

Few London people would connect romance with the name of Benjamin Franklin, but there is a chance that he may be commemorated in the most romantic of England's few mediæval churches, St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield.

Some one has discovered from the parish rate books that he once worked at the case in an office housed in his day in the Lady Chapel of the church.

Franklin records that he was employed on setting up the second edition of Wollaston's "Religion of Nature" and in that book there is a quaint little engraving showing the top floor of the factory with the compositors' racks.

The posts of these racks were still there in 1885 before the Lady Chapel was cleared of its workaday fittings and prepared for worship again.

In the wall over the Lady Chapel altar (and in Franklin's day actually in the printing room) are five tall niches, probably filled with figures of saints before the Reformation. It is now proposed to commemorate Franklin by placing one or more "female saints" in these niches.

Poor, But Proud

A lady who is a district visitor became much interested in a very poor but apparently respectable Irish family named Curran living on the top floor of a great building in a slum district of her parish.

Every time she visited the Currans she was annoyed by the staring and the whispering of the other women living in the building. One day she said to Mrs. Curran:

"Your neighbors seem very curious to know who and what I am and the nature of my business with you."

"They do," acquiesced Mrs. Curran.

"Do they ask you about it?"

"Indade they do, ma'am."

"And do you tell them?"

"Faith, thin Oi do not."

"What do you tell them?"

"Oi just tell thim," was the calm reply, "that ye are me dressmaker, an' let it go at that."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Washington's Return Home.

On December 4, 1783 Washington bade farewell to his officers in New York and rowed across the Hudson to New Jersey, thence proceeding to Philadelphia. There he handed to the proper officers a statement of the money he had spent out of his own pocket after he took command of the army more than eight years before in Cambridge. The amount was $64,315. For his services during that time he refused any pay. When he reached Annapolis, where congress was sitting, he resigned as commander in chief of the army, and proceeded to Mt. Vernon, where he had been but once during the eight years and a half.

Lawyers' Favorite Indoor Sport.

"As to the question of good faith that has been raised here, that has no bearing whatever," declared one of the lawyers for the "taxpayers" who are trying to enjoin the Hyde case prosecution. And possibly he spoke correctly. More and more the element of "good faith" is ceasing to be a factor. Many attorneys regard the administration of law as an indoor sport—a duel of wits between Artemas Quibble and Erasmus K. Snitch.—Kansas City Star.

Fixed Furniture.

It is now considered desirable to have much of the furniture built in to save buying. This also preserves a consistent decorative scheme. In the construction of houses brick is given renewed consideration because of its excellent decorative possibilities.

VALUE OF PROPER SPELLING

Attribute Highly Valued in Commercial Life, and Is a Sense to Be Developed.

Good spelling and intelligent punctuation are the accomplishments that keep many gray-haired women drawing good salaries as stenographers in downtown offices. The manager of a typewriting office from which are sent hundreds of stenographers makes no secret of the fact that good spellers are scarce.

"We had a customer come in the other day," said the manager, "who had evidently had a run of hard luck in the spelling line. He wanted a woman who could spell. 'No matter if she's cross-eyed and has a hunch on her back,' he said, 'if she can spell and write an intelligent letter.' While this was a rather extreme case it shows that employers are beginning to grow impatient over the careless spelling of today."

Another office sending out many stenographers has a series of test letters prepared especially with spelling catches for the unwary. Common words, famous as pitfalls for careless spellers, are strewn throughout these specimen letters. Fully half the applicants put an extra e in separate; in many cases the e before the last syllable in noticeable is missing, while the correct placing of the i's in the word parallel reduces many of the applicants to a state of discouragement.

"Good spelling is a pretty sure sign of mental alertness," said a business man with several offices and many stenographers. "I find that if one of our stenographers is naturally a good speller she is interested in the correct spelling and use of new words that come to her attention in reading or in dictation. Now as a matter of fact it is no small job to keep up with the spelling of the hundreds of new words.

"Our oldest stenographer and our best speller keeps on her desk a little book not more than an inch thick, but it has more first aids to poor spellers than anything I've ever seen. She doesn't use it much, but everybody else does."—Chicago Record-Herald.

UNDERSTOOD ALL THE REST

On Only One Comparatively Unimportant Point Was the Juror at Fault.

It quite often happens that in addressing a jury, the lawyers will deliver their appeals to the one member who seems to them the most intelligent. They consider that by so doing they can impress him and his influence upon the other members will be valuable.

In a recent case, all the testimony had been taken, the lawyers had summed up and the judge had charged the jury, when the juror who appeared the most intelligent, and to whom both counsel had made their impassioned appeal, arose, and stated that he wished the court to give him some information.

"I have been bothered a great deal," he said, "about two words the lawyers have been using all the time."

"What are they?" asked the court, expecting to be called upon to explain the meaning of some words like "res inter alios acta."

"Why, the words that I don't know the meaning of," said the juror, "are 'plaintiff' and 'defendant.'"—Exchange.

An Improving World.

A somewhat old-fashioned Bostonian who more than a score of years ago was very prominent in public life remarked recently: "I have observed with interest quite a change in the personal habits of men during the past 25 years. It used to be very common to see business and professional men, as well as those in public life and holding official positions, wearing silk hats and Prince Albert coats every day in the week, and if they smoked at all they smoked cigars. Nowadays silk hats are rarely seen on week days downtown, anyway, and cigarette smoking seems to be quite the thing. I do not think the new fashion is quite so dignified or manly as the old, but on the whole I am convinced the world is growing better all the time."

Horse's Tobacco Habit Is Expensive.

A Beverly fezmster is lamenting the fact that his horse has acquired the tobacco habit and he is wondering if his employer would "stand for" an expense account.

The horse, which started in one the habit by taking an occasional nibble of "fine cut," now expects a plug a day and the driver says the animal will "loaf on the job" unless he receives that allowance.

The habit has become an expensive one for the driver, and he declares it has reached a point where he must do one of two things, quit using tobacco himself or get "the boss" to advance money for the horse's share.—Boston Post.

"Rabbit Drives" Advocated.

The western farmer dislikes the coyote, and a bounty is offered for its pelt; the result is that the coyotes have greatly diminished. But, says the Portland Oregonian, the killing of the coyotes has resulted in a great increase of rabbits, many experiments have been made to diminish their number by inoculating them with disease, but without satisfactory results. Rabbit "drives" are the only sure remedy; 16,000 jack rabbits were killed in one county in Oregon in this way last winter.

HOT GAMES IN VALLEY LEAGUE FOR THIS WEEK

Noise, excitement and associated things will occur at the Page A. A. ball lot at Monessen tonight when there will be clash in the Monongahela Valley league between the Monessen and Fayette City teams. If Fayette City wins they will be tied with Charleroi for leading place in the league. If Monessen wins, well it will remain where it is for the present.

This will be the event of today in the baseball world of this valley. What will happen tomorrow will decide a few things that some people think are in need of a decision. Charleroi will play at Belle Vernon and Dunlevy at Roscoe. The dopster has it that if Belle Vernon wins from Charleroi, this town will lapse into a state of innocuous desuetude insofar as bossing the business end of the league race is concerned. What the other game will mean will be figured out later.

Saturday will include games between Dunlevy and Charleroi on the Charleroi field, between Monessen and Belle Vernon at Monessen and between Fayette City and Roscoe at Roscoe.

Last Saturday's contest proved what has been argued all the time, that the Monongahela Valley league is faster than the Pawva league was. Interest is growing and the games are being well patronized.

President John Jenkins and Secretary A. R. Murphy were Monday night making the rounds on league business. After the Fourth of July players batting and fielding averages will be compiled and probably published.

COULD NOT STAND ON FEET

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich. — "I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong."—Mrs. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Not Well Enough to Work.

In these words is hidden the tragedy of many a woman, housekeeper or wage earner who supports herself and is often helping to support a family, on meagre wages. Whether in house, office, factory, shop, store or kitchen, woman should remember that there is one tried and true remedy for the ills to which all women are prone, and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It promotes that vigor which makes work easy. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

EFFECT OF LIGHT ON EYES

When Illumination Is Too Strong, the Optic Nerve Is Subjected to a Severe Strain.

How few persons realize that they are actually suffering from snow blindness in miniature every time they read or work over a white surface on which a brilliant light shines directly. Half-tone paper, for instance, which is the common medium for the majority of books we read, will throw a blinding glare into the eye of the reader if the light strikes it at the wrong angle, and it forms an excellent test for the selection of proper lighting for a room and for the placing of the lighting fixtures, for lighting diffusion should be such as to allow comfortable reading from half-tone paper in any position.

A dome hanging above a dining table on which is white cloth causes the light to reflect into the eyes of those around the table at an angle that produces muscular strain. This has a peculiar effect upon the senses, and drowsiness and mental inertia are likely to result. People are likely to complain of a feeling of dullness at table, or that they have indigestion, when it is in reality, the effect of the light. A too brilliant light shining directly into the eye plays many curious psychological tricks. Deaf people, for instance cannot hear so well if they are facing a brilliantly lighted room and, as for being able to see better by a bright light than a dim one, exactly the reverse is the case for details of objects become practically lost to the eye when too much light enters it.—Suburban Life

Warm Winter Camp.

In winter in the open tent or lean-to you will conserve as much heat from the campfire as possible. That which goes up is lost, but it can be reduced to a minimum by placing the fire as close to the front of the camp as possible and having a rather steeply pitched roof which will catch and reflect the heat waves that go diagonally upward. The heat that would ordinarily spread on the side farthest from the camp can be thrown almost entirely backward into the structure.

The fireplace must have a reflecting back, which is constructed by standing two heavy green sticks in front of the shelter, as close to it as it will be possible to have the fire, and with their tops inclined slightly away from the shelter. Brace them behind with forked sticks, and against their front pile green logs to a height of three feet or more. The fire will be built against these front logs. Better than this reflecting back, face the camp against a big rock if one is available.—Outing.

Hospitable, Anyway.

The mother of a three-year-old girl thought it was about time her small daughter learned the why and wherefore of Christmas. Consequently, one afternoon when they were lying down together to take their afternoon nap she began to tell the little one about the Christ Child and the lowly manger where he was born. As best she could she imparted the idea to the child that Christ was good, and that it was because of his having been born on the 25th of December that the day was called Christmas and was celebrated all over the world.

When she had finished her story she waited for her wee daughter's comment. Receiving none, she looked to see if the child had fallen asleep. She had not; apparently she was thinking, for her blue eyes were very serious.

"Mamma, what did you say that man's name was? I'm going to have a birthday party and invite him."

White Beauty is a wonder of convenience. It combines three roomy cupboards, a large work table and package pantry in one spot so you can sit down at work and save miles of steps.

You have places before you for 400 articles, all at your fingers' ends. You save most of the weary hours other women spend in their kitchens.

This new Hoosier on these terms is the greatest kitchen cabinet bargain you have ever seen. The few we have will be sold in no time at all. Only those women who grasp this opportunity tomorrow can be sure of getting one of these cabinets on the liberal Hoosier plan.

Read about these conveniences that made the HOOSIER necessary to over 700,000 women.

(1) Mrs. Christine Frederick's famous "Housekeepers' Food Guide"—on the upper left door—answers the eternal problem: "What shall we have for dinner?"

(2) The Cook-book Holder on the middle upper door holds your cook book securely when not in use. When you are cooking, simply open up the book to the proper page behind the holder. It is on a level with your eye, always clean, never in the way.

There are 40 special conveniences in the NEW HOOSIER—17 are entirely NEW.

(3) The Hoosier Metal Flour Bin holds fifty pounds. It is low and easy to fill. The sliding glass front enables you to clean the entire bin easily. The inside is entirely of metal, with no corners to hold flour. First flour in is always out first.

(4) The New Shaker Flour Sifter is the most wonderful of all the new Hoosier inventions. It is the only flour sifter ever made on a kitchen cabinet that shakes flour through instead of grinding it through. It cannot wear out and cannot grind through any grit or foreign substance that might be in the flour.

OUR WINDOW DISPLAY is the talk of the town—come and see it.

(5) A new feature in the Base Cupboard is a narrow shelf conveniently located for the storage of canned articles. Most women will find this a great convenience as an "emergency shelf." It will save many trips to the cellar or pantry.

TOMORROW YOU may examine all the new features. You incur no obligation. But you should come early. You may be too late to get one on the HOOSIER PLAN if you delay. Come and SEE this remarkable NEW Hoosier tomorrow.
